

CHILD FRIENDLY IMMIGRATION RESOURCES: For Children in DUCS Foster Care¹

- Frequently Asked Questions [FAQ] for SIJS Applicants, and “Video Clips” of youth who have applied for SIJS in New York City; from Columbia University Law School Child Advocacy and Immigration Clinic (New York, New York). Go to:
<http://www.law.columbia.edu/focusareas/clinics/childadvocacy>
 - Contents: This secure Web site houses SIJS resources for youth in New York City foster care, including an “FAQ” document for youth answering common questions about SIJS in relation to getting a work permit and Social Security number, college financial aid, past arrests, illnesses, etc. There are also brief SIJS Web pages in Chinese and Spanish, as well as very compelling videos of New York City youth who were in foster care and have received SIJS.
 - DUCS Relevance: These resources are New York City specific, and the FAQ document answers some questions that other documents do not address. The video clips (see left column on home page) may be the most helpful element. Although they are in English, SIJS-applicant youth may be encouraged to see and hear other youth like themselves who have overcome similarly difficult circumstances and who have persevered through the lengthy SIJS process.
- Guide for Immigrant Juveniles, from University of Houston Law Center, Immigration Clinic (Houston, TX); available from Anne Chandler at: achandler@central.uh.edu
 - Contents: A 9-page document (not Web-based) answering basic questions for youth in detention, including reasons for detention, family reunion, attorneys, routes to legal status, and removal. Available in English and Spanish.
 - DUCS Relevance: This document is most useful to kids who are still in DUCS shelter care. The sections on “How will my attorney help me?” and “How can I legally remain in the United States” could be helpful to DUCS foster care youth as well, especially since it is translated into Spanish.
- Immigration and You: A Manual for Children, from National Immigrant Justice Center (formerly MIHRC; Chicago, IL)
 - Contents: An 18-page free downloadable brochure with drawings, targeting children and youth at the International Children’s Center (ICC); includes definitions; uses a “FAQ” format to discuss shelter care, family reunion, attorneys, routes to legal status, removal, and legal help in major US cities. Available in English and Hindi.

- DUCS Relevance: The information is geared towards children in federal custody, however it is specific to ICC shelter care. The descriptions of SIJS, asylum and trafficking are very basic (2-3 sentences). This represents a good model of a child-friendly document.
- Immigration Options for Undocumented Children, from Immigrant Legal Resource Center (San Francisco, CA)
 - Contents: A 12-page free downloadable collection of fact sheets on SIJS, VAWA, Family Visas, U Visas, US Citizenship, Asylum and TPS, with a few Web resources listed at the end; geared towards an adult audience.
 - DUCS Relevance: Although this is geared towards an adult audience, it provides a useful, succinct summary of relevant legal routes for children. Some of this information (such as on SIJS and asylum) could be useful with more savvy teens, or as an aid to caseworkers answering basic questions about SIJS.
- Immigration: What Teens Need to Know, from Public Counsel Law Center (Los Angeles, CA)
 - Contents: A 16-page free downloadable brochure that includes definitions of immigration terms and ways to obtain a green card, including SIJS and asylum; uses a “FAQ” format to answer common questions in a youth-friendly format; includes a few drawings. The resources listed are Los Angeles specific. Available in English and Spanish.
 - DUCS Relevance: This booklet is geared towards undocumented youth in the Los Angeles area. However, certain sections have general applicability, such as the definitions section and the descriptions of SIJS and asylum.
- Living in the United States: A Guide for Immigrant Youth, from Immigrant Legal Resource Center (San Francisco, CA)
 - Contents: This 31-page free downloadable document is youth-friendly and written for English-speaking adolescents. It provides straight-forward advice to both undocumented and green-card holding youth, and answers questions about what undocumented, green-card holders, and U.S. Citizen youth can and cannot do. There are specific sections on: obtaining a green card and citizenship; deportation; know your rights; adoption; helping family members; military service; voting; social security numbers; working and paying taxes; public benefits; getting ID and a driver’s license; college and credit cards.
 - DUCS Relevance: This resource includes very brief descriptions of SIJS, VAWA, T visas, adoption, and family immigration, as routes to a green card, and focuses more on the impact of one’s immigration status on practical issues of daily life. It answers teen-centered questions and may be useful as part of independent living preparation.

- What Happens When I Go To Immigration Court? from the Women's Commission for Refugee Women and Children (New York, New York)
 - Contents: This 15-minute video uses child and adult actors to convey basic information about the immigration court process, including: the roles of the judge, lawyer, interpreter, and government attorney; different types of legal relief (including SIJS); and what happens in immigration court. The video is well-done and could be very helpful to children in immigration court proceedings. Available in Creole, English, French, Fuchow and Spanish.
